Erik Bala
Norbato, Cal.

Dear Erik,
Watch your #$@%&!!! language!

* * *

If you haven't done so already, please do a parody of "The Deer Hunter"...

Sandra Tokashiki
Honalulu, Hi.

Dear Sandra,
We can't...it's out of season!

I only buy CRAZY to help the handicapped—namely yo incompetent writers, blind artists, and your illiterate proofreader!

Troy Peterson

Dear Troy,
We only print CRAZY for the mentally handicapped people who buy it!

CRAZY #54 was my first issue. My friend has #50. I like them both. I liked them even more when I taped them together after I tore them up!

Richard Brewer
Princeton Jct., N.J.

Dear Richard,
If you think that was good, try 'em with a little salt and pepper...

* * *

In every story you always have certain words in dark print. Why is this?

Rena Large
Akron, Oh.

Dear Rena,
Some words are in BOLD PRINT to EMPHASIZE certain POINTS, like the DUMBNESS of CERTAIN QUESTIONS!!!

BUMPER STICKER OF THE MONTH
ALL IN FAVOR OF CONSERVING GASOLINE RAISE YOUR RIGHT FOOT!

I enjoyed your feature on the Finger Family in Issue No. 60. Why don't you do another one?

Jean & Allison

Mr. & Mrs. Anderson
Bill Ranch, N.Mex.

Dear Mr. & Mrs. A.,
Get CRAZY twice as fast...order two subscriptions!

* * *

In issue #54, I enjoyed the Typical Dog Show. Why don't you put in a Typical Zoo Show so we can see the people who read CRAZY?

Karen Sproule
Pittsburgh, Pa.

Dear Karen,
With our luck, that show would probably be pre-empted!

* * *

Last year, I ordered a subscription to your magazine. Now, this year, I can't stop reading it. I guess it's in my blood now. Keep up the excellent work!

Jim McDonald
Johnstown, Pa.

Dear Jim,
We bloody well will!

* * *

I've just finished reading CRAZY #54, and the article on Fantastic Island was the best! Why didn't you make it longer?

Gerald Babiuk
Edmontor, Alto.

Dear Gerald,
We couldn't make it longer...we had to fit it on the page!

I thought issue #54 was very funny, especially the Fantastic Island feature. But most of all, I enjoyed the article It's Not Your Day When... I thought it was hilarious. I kept reading it over and over.

Danielle Kaloyios
Woodside, N.Y.

Dear Danielle,
Be careful...reading CRAZY sideways and upside down can hurt your eyes!

* * *

I really liked your Fantastic Island parody in issue #54, which is surprising because most of your stories stink!

Faron Davis
Danville, Ala.

Dear Faron,
That's because for this parody we used Ban roll-on paper!

* * *

Why don't you put more action into your magazine?

Joshua Darby
Ashfield, Md.

Dear Joshua,
Why don't you put more action into your letter...like maybe send it someplace else far away!

* * *

I just bought my first issue of CRAZY. I liked it very much. You guys sure make a lot of funny words.

Robert L.T.
Honolulu, Hi.

Dear Robert,
Yes, but we have trouble putting them together properly!

You're CRAZY for writing this stuff!

Craig Fischer
Carbondale, Pa.

Dear Craig,
You're crazier for reading this stuff!

* * *

I liked issue #56, especially the part about the China Syndumb, T.V. Sets Of The Future, Gas Lines, and the Modern-Day Song Book. They were so funny, I forgot to laugh!

Brent Montgomery
Frost, Tx.

Dear Brent,
Your letter was so dumb, we remembered to print it!

* * *

Those people who think your magazine is completely terrible are wrong. You're only half-terrible!

Randy Brown,
Black River Falls, Wsc.

Dear Randy,
What do you expect from half-wits?

TV SATIRE

Here's our version of a TV series in which a lot of people get sick every week. No, not the patients on this pseudo-medical show. We're talking about the audiences who keep watching . . .

QUEENCY

Writer: Rico Tallar Artist: Murad Gumen

All right, wheel in this week's weird assortment of horribly mutilated dead bodies... the more grotesque and hideous-looking, the better I like 'em!
Which is why I never got married ... all the eligible girls I meet are alive!
MIDNIGHT
NOW HERE'S A LATE WORD
AGH!
AUTOPSY TURVY

Hmmm... this is the ugliest corpse I've ever seen! Look at that twisted mouth... that frozen sneer ... that rigor-mortis expression...
Hold it, Queency... that's Leo, our janitor! He just laid down to take a little nap!

Here's another corpse... but, oddly enough, he looks incredibly well!
And why not? He spent the whole winter in Miami!
Shut up and get to this week's baffling case!
NOSE DROPS
GIN

Queency, we have here one of the most puzzling cases ever brought before the department... a 20-year-old caucasian female who died under mysterious circumstances! She just dropped dead while eating a piece of strawberry shortcake! Most unusual...
What's so unusual about it?
Strawberries are out of season!

The police officially list this girl's death as suicide... but personally I think it was murder! I want you to prove I'm right!
Here I go again... I start out each show as a doctor and wind up a detective!
Which is as it should be! Just between you and me, Queency... you're more believable as a cop than as a medical man!
NEVER SAUSAGE A TAIL!
FRESH!
SCARED STIFF

Queency, with a face like yours... where did you go to medical school?
The south side of Chicago!
Figures!
ROOF!

Let's see now...the right rear occipital region shows evidence of mass occlusion...the lower left digital extremities indicate marked abrasions and puncture wounds...and the upper frontal lobar area suggests a high level of toxic density!

What are you saying, Queency?

Nothing! Just a lot of baloney! I do this every now and then to remind viewers this is supposed to be a medical series...not a detective-type show, which it always turns into!

HEE HEE

PUZZLE PITCHER

CLAP CLAP CLAP

Seal of approval

All right, I'll begin by questioning all the people in the dead girl's life...just like a real detective would do!

I'll get to the bottom of this or my name ain't Oscar Madis...

Peepholes Choice

RAZZZZ

...OOPS! I mean, Doctor Queency!

I've been doing so many TV series lately, I forgot my character!

Why bother remembering? You act the same in each!

THERE ARE SPOTS BEFORE MY EYES, DOC! SEE?

Oh, yeah? I'll have you know I spent 8 years at Harvard Medical School!

Oh? What were you studying?

Nothing! They were studying me!

LOOK, CAN'T YOU GIVE ME PATES INSTEAD OF NUTS?

HEM LOCK

This really is a baffling case! My brain tells me to open her intestinal tract...my instinct tells me to open the abdominal cavity...but I'm going to listen to my nose! That tells me to open a window!

WHEWWW! These bodies really smell!

I'm her roommate...I hated her! She stole my boyfriend...my job...my money..everything I had! I'm glad she's dead!
I'm her ex-lover...I was glad to get rid of her! She was a drag...a leech...a hanger-on! The world is better off without her!
I'm her ex-boss...I just fired her! She was stealing from the company and blackmailing my foreman! Who needed her?
I'm her psychiatrist...and I know she was no good! She didn't have a complex ...she was inferior! She made me so mad I could kill!
Hmmm...mothing unusual here! They all seem innocent enough! I'll have to look elsewhere for a clue!

Let's see now...the girl didn't do anything to abuse her body! She didn't drink...she didn't smoke...she didn't go to wild parties with strange men...
SCREAM IF YOU HATE NOISE POLLUTION
Jack La Lean SPA
LET US ALTER YOUR BIRTHDAY SUIT!
REAR TODA GONE TOMORR
DON'T GIVE UP THE SHAPE
CAR POOL
SHEIK DRESSER
PARK NOW PAY LATER

How could I have been so stupid? Now I know how she died!
LASSIE COME HOME

So tell me, Queency...what did she die of?
Boredom!
Boredom?
Yes...sheer boredom! A real killer! Doesn't leave a trace in the body!
COULD DEATH BE NATURE'S WAY OF TELLING YOU TO SLOW DOWN?

Queency, if you're right .most of our viewing audience is in the same boat!
Have you taken a look at our ratings lately?
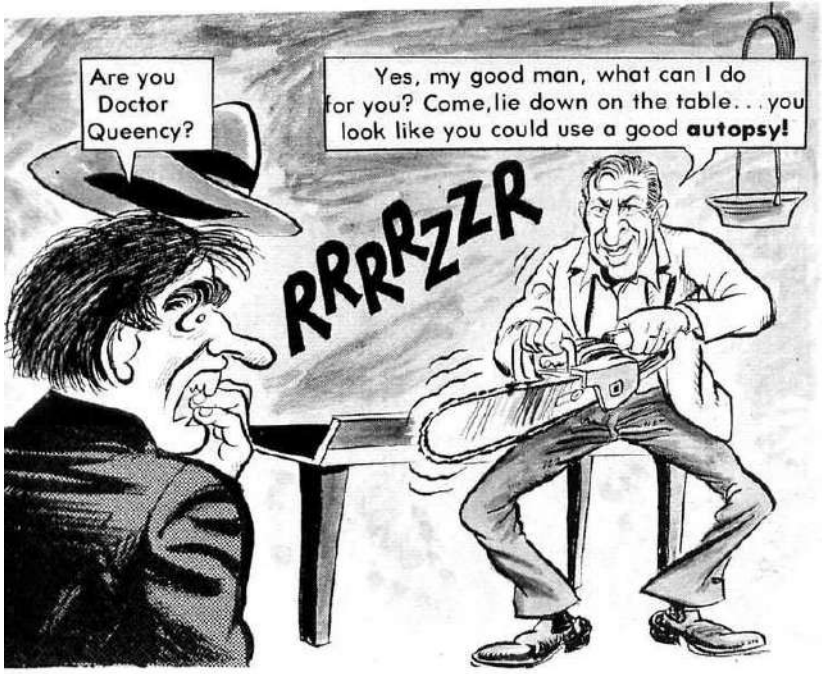
TRASH



Are you Doctor Queency?
Yes, my good man, what can I do for you? Come, lie down on the table... you look like you could use a good autopsy!
RRRRZZR

I'm from the U.S. Government Department of Fraudulent Practices! I have here a subpoena for you!
BRRAAPPTZ

W-what? Whatever for?
But I have a medical license!
For practicing without a license!
I'm talking about a detective's license! Man, haven't you been following this story?
BOXED STIFF

I knew they'd catch up with me one of these days!
Go do two concepts on one show!
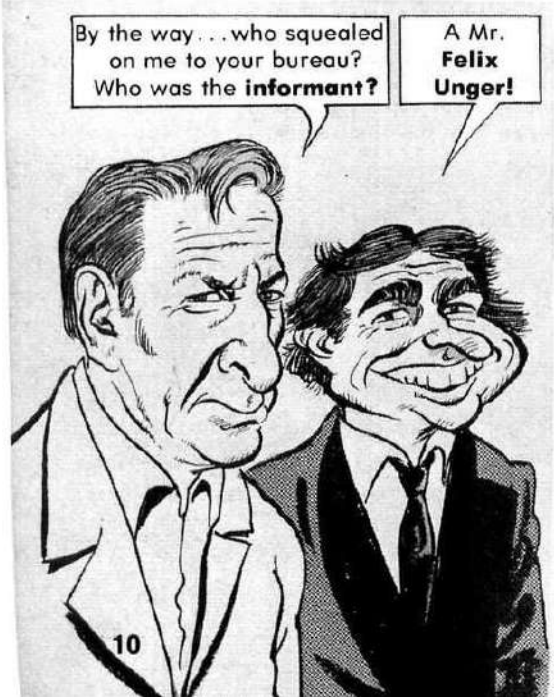
OKAY, THAT'S 42 FRESH CORPSES AT 75¢ EACH.
BOW WOW DOG FOOD INC.
Subpoena



By the way... who squealed on me to your bureau? Who was the informant?
A Mr. Felix Unger!

Come, Oscar, I made you some nice veal cutlets...
He'd do anything to get me back to the Odd Couple! Without me his career went zilch!

Having bad breath is something we all worry about. But what most people don't realize is that bad breath can be an asset. It's true. If you don't believe us, just check out...

THE ADVANTA

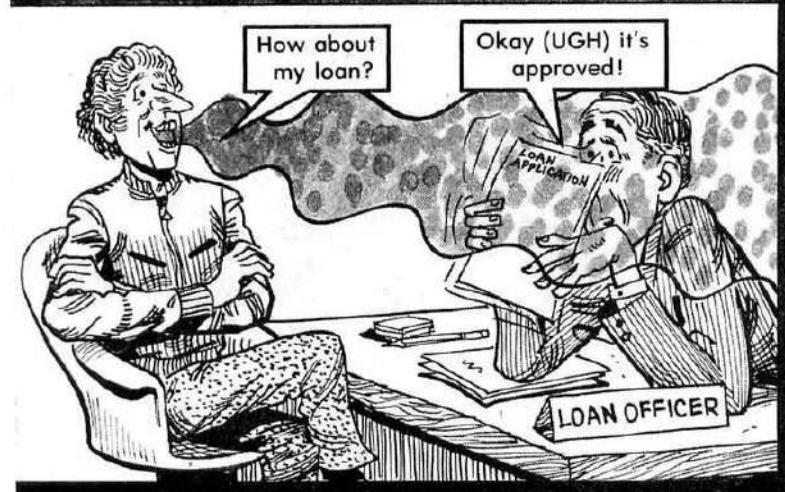
Bad breath can repel bullies who come at you menacingly

It can also thwart muggers who attack you without warning

Also, getting through crowds is much easier with bad breath

Bad breath almost always gets you a seat on the crowded subway

With bad breath you needn't worry about dogs biting you



Bad breath will make you a more forceful personality anywhere

Think of the money you save on mouthwash and breath mints

GES OF BAD BREATH

Writer: Michael Pellowski
Artist: Tony Tallarico

It can even help you win any argument you find yourself in

In the summer bad breath can keep insects from annoying you

Having bad breath reduces girls chances of being molested

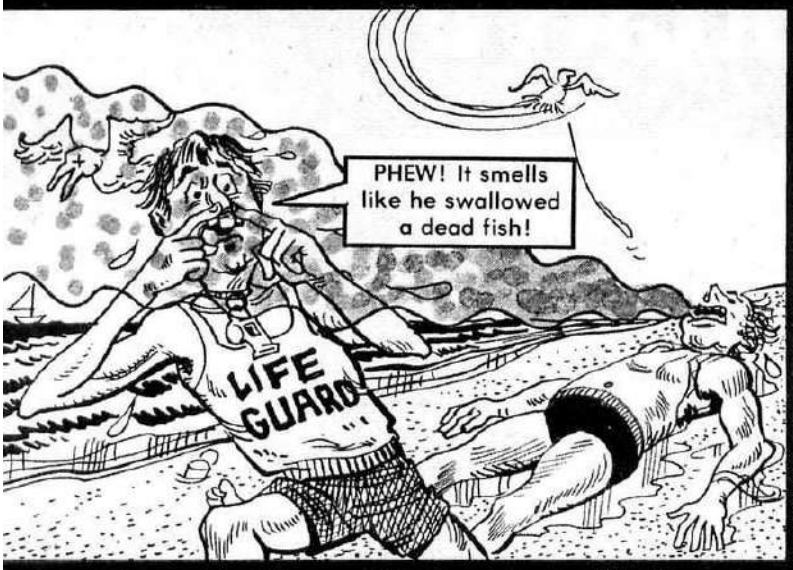
On blind dates with creeps you won't have to kiss him good-night

In legal areas bad breath can get your case thrown out of court

You can eat any exotic food without worrying about your breath

And you can earn extra money straightening people's curly hair

OF COURSE THERE ARE ALSO DISADVANTAGES TO HAVING BAD BREATH



In a swimming accident no one will give you mouth-to-mouth resuscitation

You'll never be able to smell fresh flowers — only wilted ones

Naturally you can't go scuba diving if you have bad breath

And your circle of friends will be limited to those with colds

Being in a small confined area can make you sick to your stomach

People will do anything to keep you out of their conversations

The government may even slap an air pollution fine on you

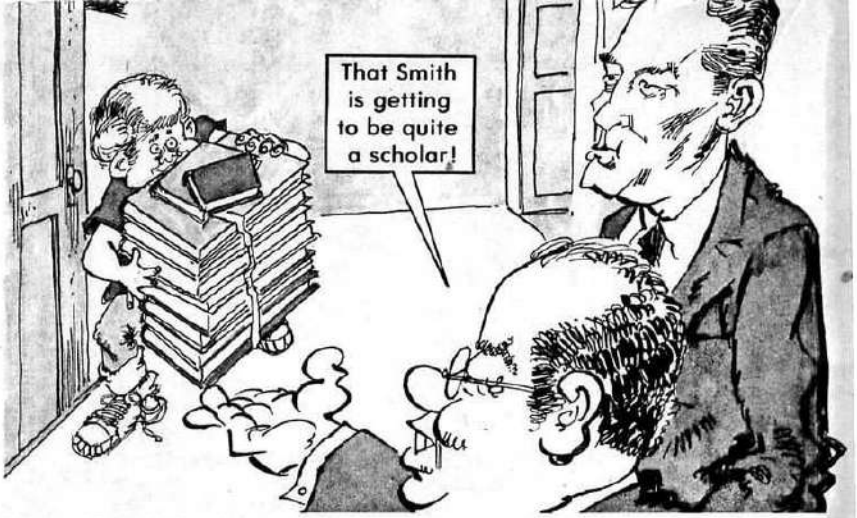
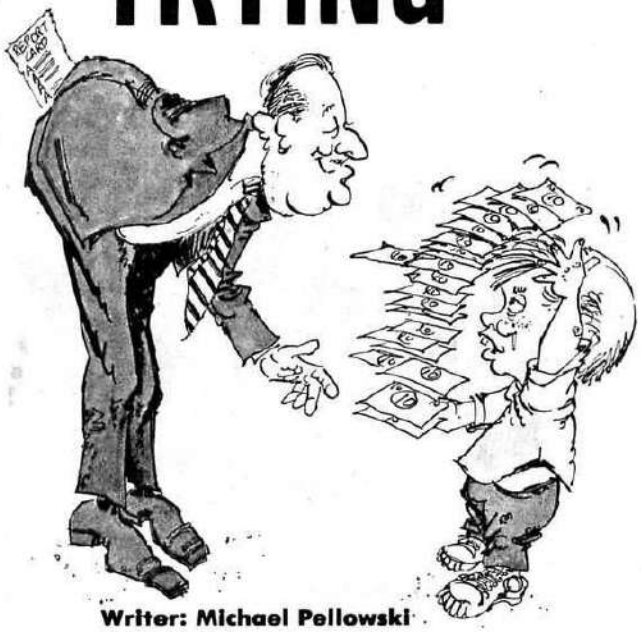
You don't have to study to do well in school. In fact, it's easy to pass with flying colors – all you have to do is learn a few Crazy basic do's and don'ts. So why be a funny flunkie when you can be a shifty scholar as you learn...

HOW TO SUCCEED IN SCHOOL WITHOUT REALLY TRYING

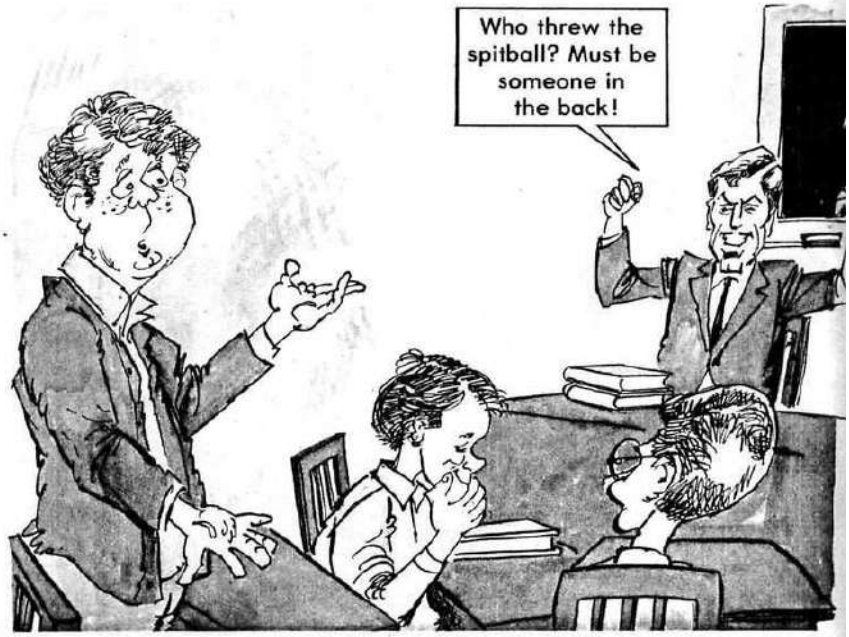


Carry a lot of books around the hallways. Teachers will think you study a lot even if you never even open one.

Bring some extra pencils to school to lend to those kids who come there without anything to write with.

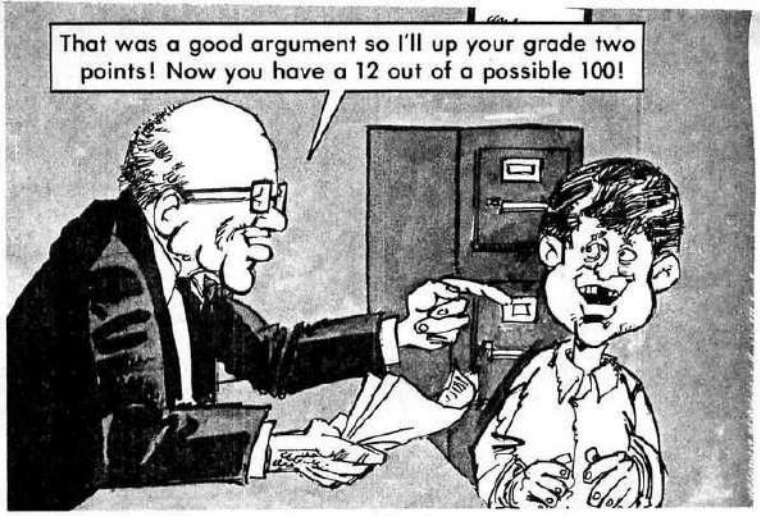


Writer: Michael Pellowski
Artist: Walter Brogan



Sit in a front seat. Teachers always watch the kids who sit in back seats, so you can get away with murder.

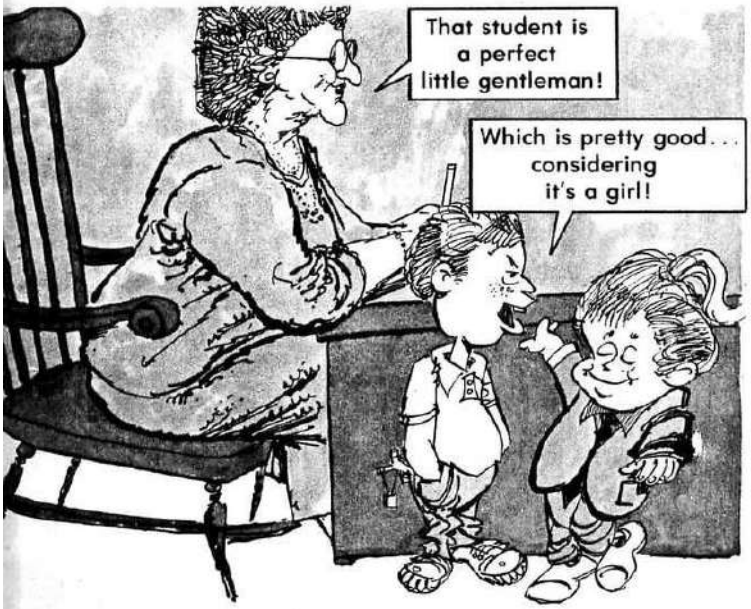
Be the first kid in class. It looks good to the teacher, and you can snoop around her desk.



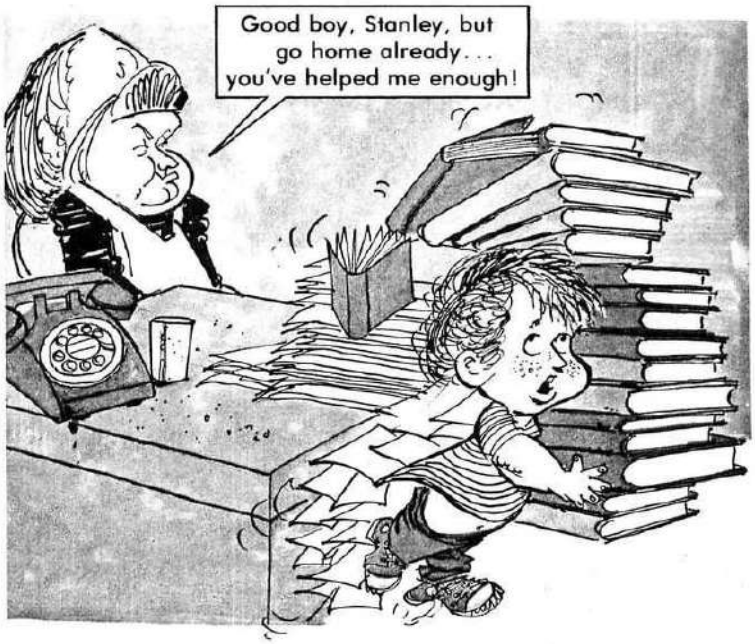
To impress your teacher, argue over your test grades, trying to improve the marks you got on them.

Raise your hand every time the teacher asks a question. Teachers never call on students who raise their hands.

By a stroke of bad luck, should the teacher actually call on you for the answer, use the above excuse.



Wear a shirt and tie to school in order to stand out from the other kids and their shabby clothing.



Always offer to help teachers carry things to and from the classrooms, whether they want you to or not.

CRAZY GOES TO A

KISS CONCERT

Writer: Bill Quidort
Artist: Al Scaduto

First there were the TV movies of Gilligan's Island, The Mod Squad, and The Wild Wild West. Soon movies of Get Smart and Love Boat will be released in the theaters. What does it all mean? Aside from the fact that producers are running out of original ideas? All we can say is, if this trend continuing the premises of long-cancelled TV shows keeps up, no doubt in coming years we'll be seeing these . . .

FUTURE MOVIE VERSIONS OF TODAY'S TV SHOWS

Writer: Murad Gumen Artist: John Reiner

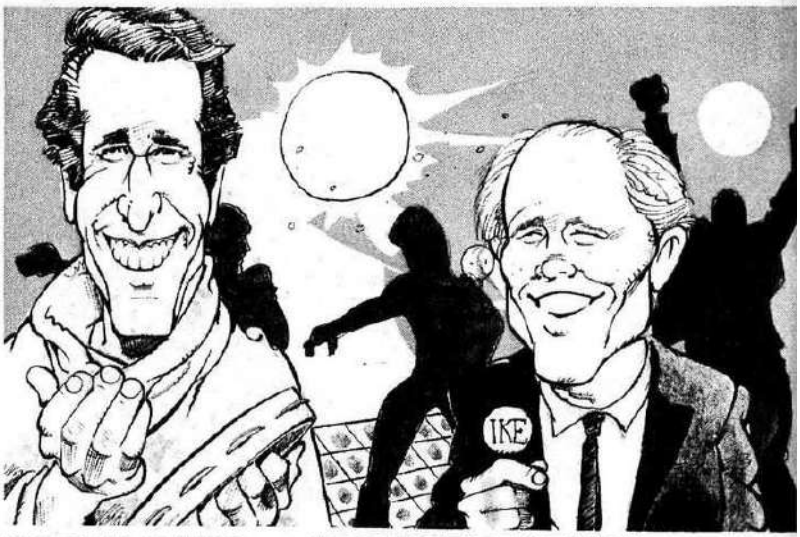
THE WHITE SHADOW STRIKES AGAIN

After his basketball players graduate to stardom and contracts with six figures, Coach Reeves realizes what a jerk he's been to chuck his brilliant career away for a measly $150 a week job as a gym teacher. Now past his prime, the cynical coach no longer gives a hoot about his students' personal problems — just like a regular faculty member!



HAPPY DAYS — ARE HERE AGAIN!

The Cunninghams move forward in time to that bygone era of the seventies. Richie, now 43, still lives with his parents and goes out each weekend to the local discotheque. And he has more problems in picking up girls than ever. Meanwhile, Fonzie is fed up with the lack of national values and purpose . . . so he hangs up his leather jacket and joins a cult!

CHARLIE'S ANGELS, PART 2

After Kate Jackson, Jaclyn Smith, Cheryl Ladd, Shelley Hack and subsequent actresses have left their roles, a trio of unknowns try to portray the Angels anew — along with a graying, middle-aged Farrah Fawcett-Majors, who has been unable to find acting work for years — after starring in some of the biggest "bomb" movies of all time!

EIGHTY IS ENOUGH

Now a great grandfather, Tom finds his happy brood insisting they remain a large family. And so nobody wants to move out. When modern medicine soon predicts that quintuplets are on the way in the latest family pregnancy, Tom's heart starts to play tricks on him — and the fun begins. Not recommended for anyone with a weak bladder!

MORK AND MINDY: THE MOVIE

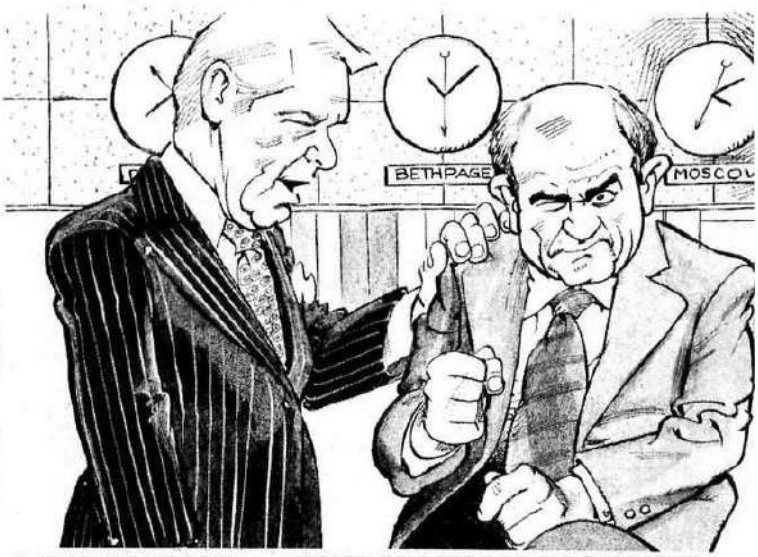
Finally having driven Mindy crazy, Mork takes a job as a janitor in the local insane asylum to keep her company. As a result, everybody's mental situation worsens — especially the doctors. In this mishmash, nobody knows who the patients are and who the doctors are. And, even more important than that, nobody gives a darn!

THE INCREDIBLE HULK RETURNS

Bruce Banner is still afflicted with the same curse caused by gamma rays. But now whenever he turns into the Hulk, laughter rather than fear results. For some reason, people no longer feel threatened by an 85-year-old green-skinned arthritic who can barely lift up his cane to clobber people. In fact, in one scene a bully kicks sand in his face!

MORE DIFF'RENT STROKES

Problems develop as Arnold tries his best to be cute and expects people to squeeze his cheeks, give him toys and think of him as nothing short of an adorable ten-year-old, even though he's now a twenty-five-year-old college graduate, going for his PhD in abnormal psychology. The laughs come from how stupid the remarks he makes seem now that he's older!



LOU GRANT — THE MOTION PICTURE

Paper shortages and assorted union strikes shut down the newspaper where Lou works, and his only option is to head back to the TV newsroom in Minneapolis where he got his start. His reunion with Mary Tyler Moore is a pleasant one and all goes well until he discovers that he has to work under the now famous celebrity anchorman, Ted Baxter!

THE RETURN OF BARNABY JONES

Barnaby is called out of retirement once again, this time to solve mysterious murders in the 1996 Olympics. With his sight failing and his aching body confined to a wheelchair, the spunky 103-year-old poses as an athlete so as not to arouse suspicion. The ending is amusing, as he attempts to make a broad-jump in the air and she slaps his face!

ALICE—REVISITED

Unable to compete, Mel's Diner gives way to a takeover by McDonald's chain of fast-food joints. Alice is resigned to the fact that she will always be a waitress and never a singer, but takes comfort in the occasions she can burst into song and sing the jingle "You . . . you're the one . . .". It ends as Flo finally gets married — to Ronald McDonald!

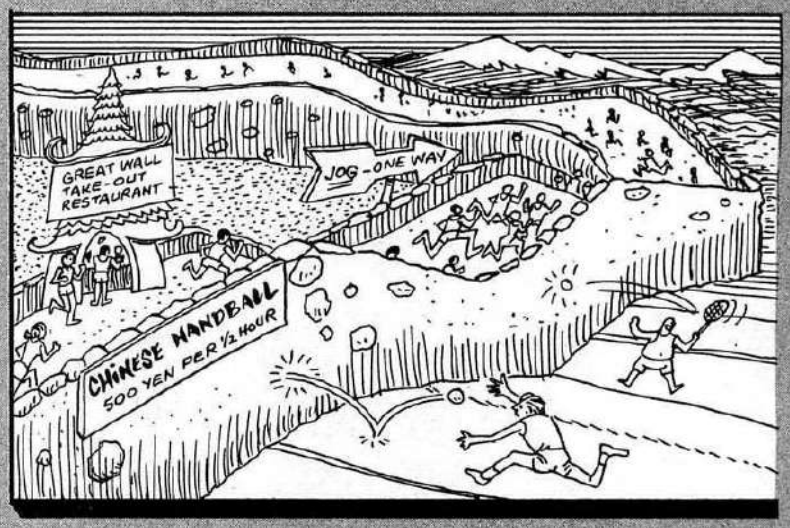
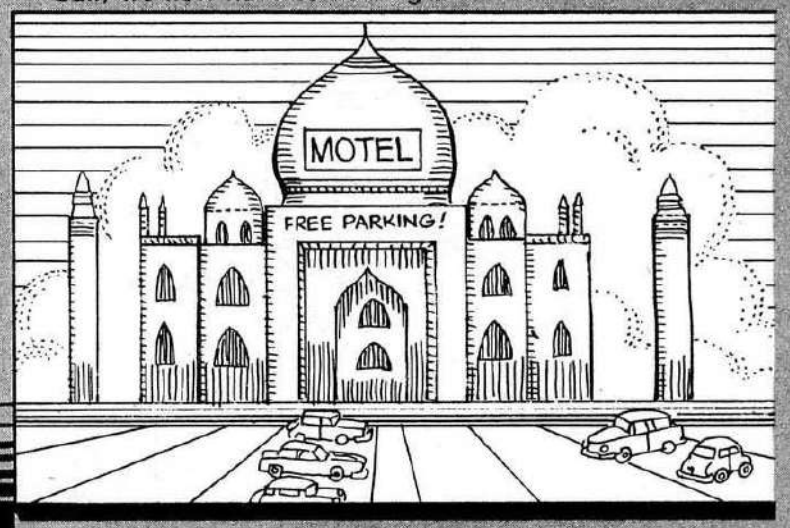
To publicize the arrival of the King Tut exhibit, a San Francisco artist suggested that the owners of the famous, pyramid-shaped Transamerica Building hoist a huge eye to the top of the building. Although many scoffed, we think the idea has merit. In fact, more eyesore buildings could be improved with a little constructive thought. Like these suggestions for...

RE-DESIGNING WORLD LANDMARKS
TO MAKE THEM MORE POPULAR

THE EMPIRE STATE BUILDING
How about a giant gymnasium in the sky to accomodate the second coming of King Kong to the huge building where he first took up residence? And for the times when King has the girl in his arms —a special trampoline that doubles as a water bed.



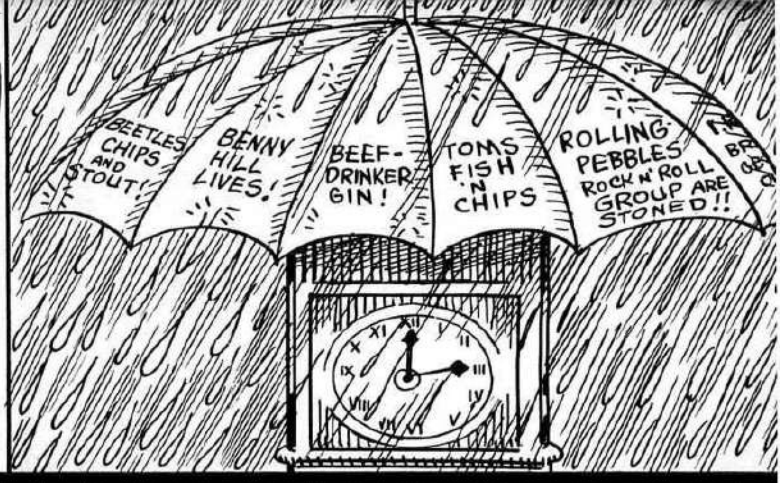
THE GREAT WALL OF CHINA
Technically not a building, the Great Wall has for centuries just stood there with no real purpose. By converting the top of the wall to a jogging track and the sides to courts for squash, racquetball and handball, we now have something of value.



THE TAJ MAHAL PALACE
Affixing a small sign—MOTEL—to this place will enable people to prosper from the proceeds. After all, good places to stay overnight are at a premium. Besides, think of it—you could be playing the Palace!

Writer: Phil Hirsch
Artist: Tony Tallarico

THE LITTLE OLD LADY WHO LIVES IN A SHOE RECOMMENDS THE PILL

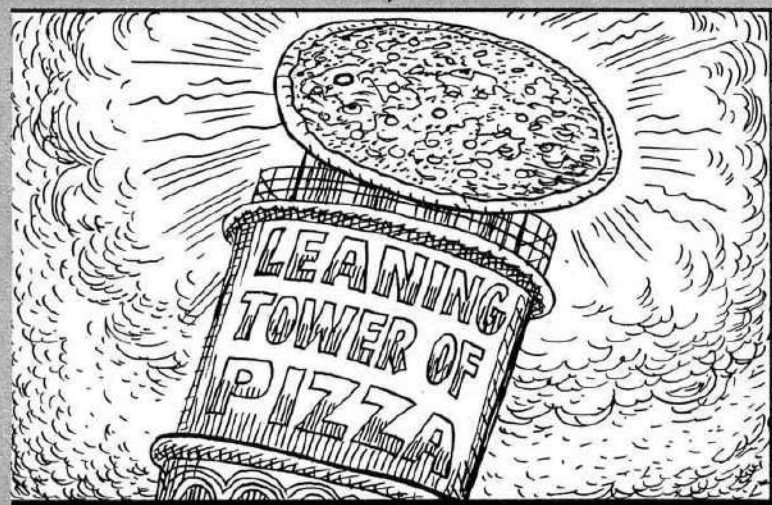


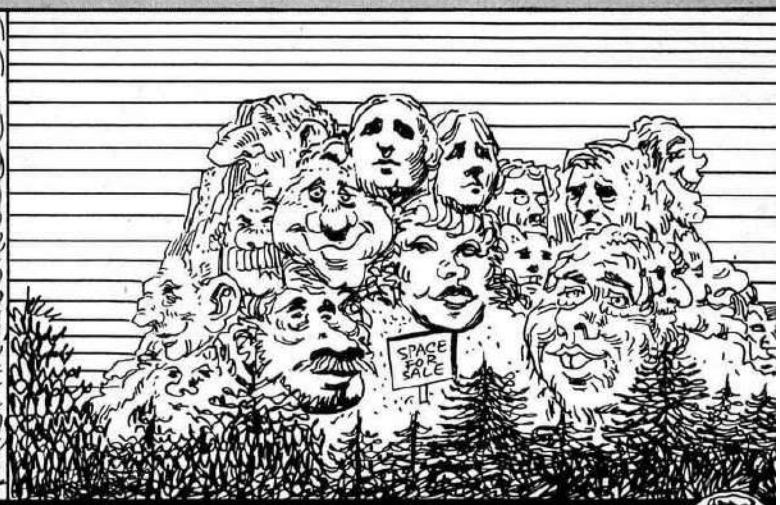
THE CAPITAL RECORDS BUILDING
Los Angeles' highly-visible round building could be converted into a turntable for Capitol Records. How, you ask, will the building turn around? Simple—just wait for one of the city's frequent earthquakes.

BIG BEN
London's famed clock tower could use an enormous umbrella to shield its famous timepiece from that city's constant rainfall. Also, the cost of the umbrella could be defrayed easily enough by showering it all over with advertising.

ALCATRAZ
Stone walls do not a prison make, not if you advertise this now-shuttered penal institution, situated on an island off San Francisco, as a hotel with splash. Rooms in the Hotel Alcatraz would attract millions who'd love it for its many bars.

THE ST. LOUIS ARCH
People suffering from fallen arches need despair no longer. This sky-soaring symbol will stand out as a rainbow of hope to the afflicted, who need only come here to be cured forever of their St. Louis blues.





LEANING TOWER OF PISA
With a little imagination, this architectural wonder can be converted to "The Leaning Tower of Pizza". If all those tourists buy only one slice each, there's a fortune to be made. Enough to fatten up the leanest of towers.

MOUNT RUSHMORE
Hurry, while there is still space on the mountain. There is still time for you to pay to have your face, or the face of your loved one, carved on this mountain, alongside our great presidents. Ideal for those who want to remain forever stoned.

HOW TO LIVE ON 10¢ A DAY

Writer: Joe Kiernan Artist: Al Scaduto

For faster transportation, visit a tough section of town.

Take a bath only when it's raining outside.

Don't buy socks — just paint your feet black.

For lunch, go on the stage and eat the food they throw at you.

You can also steal suits from scarecrows.

Walk into a theatre backwards. The usher will think you're going out.

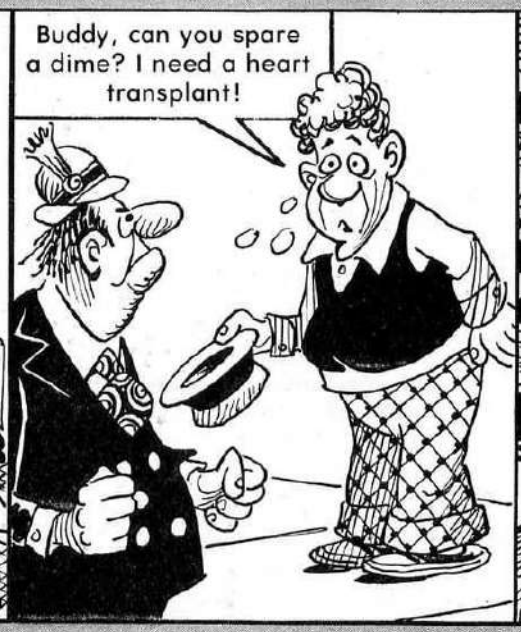
Go to a hardware store — save money on haircuts.

Save rent money by sleeping in a bus station locker.

For transportation, eat Mexican Jumping Beans.

For dinner, catch a fish in a nearby stream.

Save money on suits — join a nudist camp.



Now for that 10¢. If you haven't a dime, bum one...

With the dime, call your folks and threaten if they don't send you 500 bucks, you'll come home and live with them!

Strikes and balls have long been a part of the Grand Old Game of baseball. Today, however, the strikes have been called by the players and umpires off the diamond—namely, labor strikes for more money. To date, the players have managed to gain whopping pay increases, but the umpires continue to boycott as they want salary parity with the players. If this keeps up, it seems likely that other baseball workers will follow suit. And so, here's what will happen...

WHEN EVERYBODY IN BASEBALL HOLDS OUT FOR MORE MONEY

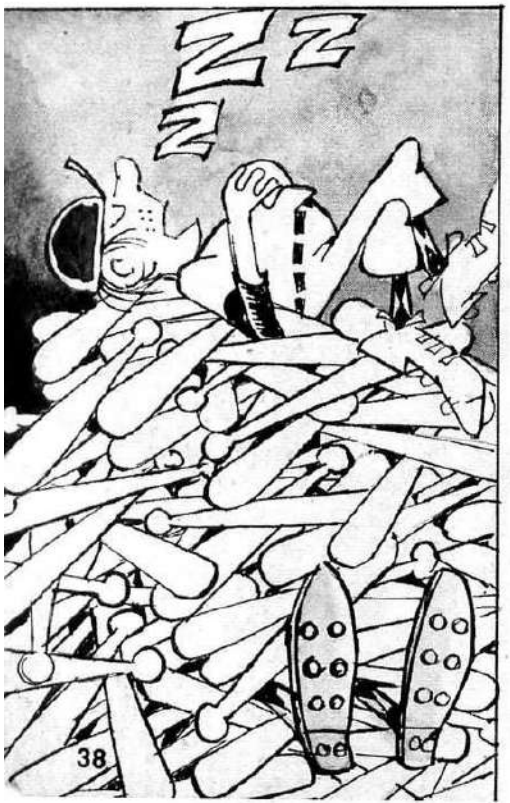
Writer: Hope Hirsch

Artist: Vic Martin

THE TRAINERS: When baseball's idiotic owners refused to pay the trainers a minimum of $52,000 a year, they rubbed the trainers the wrong way. As a result, the trainers are up in arms—mainly, sore pitchers' arms; and it's no wonder, considering the fact that the trainers decided to rub the hurlers down with Elmer's glue instead of liniment. Ira Irascible, veteran American League trainer, put it this way: "If they don't give us what we want, we'll really rub it in!"

SCOREBOARD OPERATOR: Commenting that "if baseball owners know the score, they'll pay us $85,000 a year plus a $5,000 bonus for knowing the score all season," Al Einstein, who helps operate the scoreboard for the Detroit Tigers, pointed out the difficulties of keeping score. "Sometimes, in a high-scoring game, when teams score 12, 13 runs, it requires mathematical genius, says Albert Einstein, who then runs outs of fingers to count on!

THE BALLPARK P.A. ANNOUNCER: "Okay, so the teams don't want to pay us a paltry $100,000 a year," said Shecky Greenback, announcer for the Baltimore Orioles. "We'll prove that words—our words—speak louder than actions. Rather than strike, we'll stay on the job. But we'll give out wrong information, announce the wrong lineups, refuse to divulge the real names of pinch-hitters on the grounds it might incriminate us." Asked what he would do if the owners dragged him into court, Shecky blandly replied, "I'll take the fifth! Inning, that is!"



BATBOYS: Lamenting the fact that they're the unknown soldiers of baseball, the batboys are demanding more recognition, including the addition of their names to the team lineup and a whopping $20,000-a-year increase in pay. "Can you imagine what would happen to Pete Rose's batting average," said batboy Louis Hernia, "if I gave him a bat belonging to a 145-pound shortstop? The game depends upon our ability to shlep those heavy clubs. But if the baseball owners don't listen to us, we'll drive them bats!"

THE ORGANIST: Gladys Tinear, whose inspirational organ music rouses Chicago Cubs bleacher bums to throw things at enemy players while they are trying to make fielding plays, claims that her efforts won 38 games last year for the Cubbies. "I'm striking all right," shouted Tinear. "In fact, I refuse to strike another note until I get $85,000 a year plus $102 per-day expenses. If not, just as a Cub baserunner is about to slide into a base, I'll play the Star Spangled Banner and he'll have to stand and be tagged out!"

GROUNDSKEEPERS: "We, too, want to live off the fat of the land," says groundskeeper Ernie Goober of the Boston Red Sox. Goober pointed out that he and his staff won at least 27 games for the Sox last season by adjusting the pitcher's mound and the baselines so that opposing pitchers would be throwing from a disadvantaged position, and opponent runners would be slowed down on the basepaths! "Why," said Goober, "we won more games with our tricks than any pitcher on the team, and they're getting a hundred grand and up!" He then trained a hose on the batter's box and added, "We're tired of taking a hosing. If we don't get what we're asking for, we'll turn the ballpark into a dust bowl!"

PEANUT VENDORS: Carl "Lefty" Kramer, who throws a mean fastbag of peanuts at St. Louis Cardinals' games, announced today that he and the other vendors are holding out for $35,000 a year. "We're tired," says Kramer, "of working for peanuts!" Baseball officials, confronted with the strike, say, "The nuts aren't only in the bag!"

THE FANS: "They'll have to pay me to see another baseball game," said John Q. Fan, thoroughly disgusted after waiting more than 20 years outside the long-dismantled Ebbets Field in Brooklyn to see the Brooklyn Dodgers play. "I'm sick and tired of hearing those strikers complain about how difficult it is to pitch a ball or call a man out or safe! Did you ever have to sit through a 12-2 game? Did you ever wonder why some .176 hitter gets to sit in the cool dugout, 35 feet from first base, and near a refreshing water cooler, when he didn't pay a nickel to get into the park—while us fans got to shell out our hard-earned bucks to sit three miles away from home plate in the bleachers?" Pointing out that the fans are no less important than the players, John Q. Fan indicated that he would sit it out all summer—away from the ballpark—unless the owners pay him to go to the games!

TURNSTILE ATTENDANTS: "Nobody gets in the stadium," insists Ken Kong, "unless we thoroughly inspect their tickets. That means we look long and carefully at the game number and date and then ask questions of each ticket holder just to make sure he's not a spy from Pete Roselle's National Football League, or something!" In calling for a slowdown, Kong also told his fellow turnstile attendants to check each fan for weapons and ID's. "If they don't check out," says the turnstile attendant, "give them the gate!"

CRAZY NEWS OF THE MONTH

THOUGHT OF THE MONTH: WHY IS IT A BUS RUNS TWICE AS FAST WHEN YOU'RE AFTER IT, AS IT DOES WHEN YOU'RE INSIDE IT?

GIBBERISH SPOKEN HERE — ALL THE NOISE THAT'S FIT TO PRINT — WRITER: PAUL LAIKIN

NEW YORK, N.Y. . . . This is still the crime-ridden center of America. A man robbed a bank here and was mugged on the way to the getaway car! . . . In one high school in the East Bronx the school newspaper has an Obituary Column!

TOLEDO, OHIO . . . An enterprising young fellow here took the wheels from a Cadillac, the motor from a Buick and the grill from a Chevrolet. Know what he got? Six months!

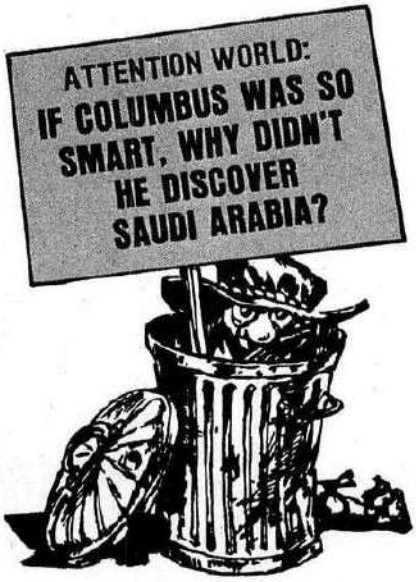
WASHINGTON, D.C. . . . This month President Carter is going on a personal mission to the Middle East. The Arabs want to meet the guy who runs the country they own! . . . And speaking of the Arabs, did you know that Exxon is Arabic for "Stick 'em up!"

MOSCOW, RUSSIA . . . Latest statistics here show that there's no longer an unemployment problem in the U.S.S.R. What with all the defections to this country, there are always openings in the ballet!

DALLAS, TEXAS . . . Everybody is feeling the pressure of inflation these days. A local zillionaire walked into a supermarket recently and loaded up on "Caviar Helper". It's gotten so bad that now, for the first time in history, counterfeiters are going bankrupt!

UPI EXCLUSIVE: Urgent message to the Hell's Angels: The town you took over last night is a leper colony . . .

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN. . . . Vacation costs have risen also. One fellow just back from Europe called all his friends together and showed them colored slides of canceled checks!



TAMPA, FLA. . . . With hijacking still in the news, the airlines have tightened security. The guards at the airport here reportedly frisked Raquel Welch for two hours recently — and she was just seeing somebody off! . . . Nobody's ahead of the game. You take the Eskimos. They're sitting on top of the world and still they're complaining!

CHICAGO, ILL. . . . Weird things are happening in this city too. A man sitting in a Chinese restaurant got a fortune cookie which read: "You will meet a beautiful woman. You will give her money. She is our cashier . . ."

BIRMINGHAM, ALA. . . . Hear about the new drink called the "Bourbon Renewal"? One sip and the whole neighborhood looks better . . . or about the bandit who walked into an insurance office and escaped without buying any? . . . or the two convicts who were fighting? One called the other a dirty number!

PARIS, FRANCE . . . The Guillotine Workers of Paris just went on strike. They're demanding more severence pay! . . . And speaking of severence, there was a terrible accident on the Rue de la Paix here last month. A pair of Siamese twins were fighting, and somebody came along and tried to separate them!
